NASHVILLE CONVENTION.

Delegates Report on the Convention at a Meeting of the Y. M. C. A. Thursday.

At the regular Thursday noon meeting of the Y. M. C. A. in Parish Hall yesterday, the delegates to the recent convention of the Student Volunteer Movement at Nashville, reported on the meetings of the convention. A very enthusiastic report of the proceeding was given by all of the delegates and no doubt the volunteer movement was immensely aided by the convention. The meetings were held morning and evening on each of the five days that the convention was in session, and in the afternoons there were sectional conferences. The Technology delegation of five men represented one of the seven hundred institutions of learning from which delegates were present. Each one of the five delegates reported on one day's meetings and in spite of the brief time allowed them, some vivid impressions were presented.

D. S. Gates reported on the proceedings of the first day. The immense size of the convention was impressed upon the delegates from the start. There were nearly five thousand delegates in attendance, representing both the student bodies and the faculties of colleges all over the country. The immense auditorium in which the meetings were held was inadequate and two churches had to be opened to accommodate the extra delegates. The inspiration of such numbers, including notable men from all branches of missions, was of great help to the delegates. The meetings of the second day, reported by A. Blake, included speeches by such well known men as Bishop Gaylor and Robert E. Speer, familiar to Technology men. The eloquence of Mr. Speer aroused the listeners, and a subscription for the foreign mission work, taken up at the meeting amounted to $84,166. F. O. Adams in reporting on the third day of the convention, spoke of the discussion of the day on the characteristics essential to a good missionary. In the discussion, the world wide character of the volunteer movement was clearly brought out. T. C. Keeling reported on the proceedings of the fourth day and spoke of the impression of earnestness and of the lack of emotion shown at the convention. Pres. Capen of the American Board delivered a remarkable address and greatly impressed the delegates by his earnestness.

The last day of the convention was the most helpful of them all and L. W. Brock in speaking of this day's meetings, told of the impressiveness of that immense gathering and the fellowship among all present. It was at the last meeting that the volunteers were called for, not on the spur of the moment but after careful thought and deliberation. In closing Mr. Brock spoke of the lasting impressions he had received from attending the convention.

CROSS COUNTRY.

O. H. Starkweather, '07, Attends the Intercollegiate Cross Country Convention.

The Intercollegiate Cross Country Association met in New York on March 10 to arrange plans for next fall and elect new officers. Technology, Harvard, Yale, Cornell, Pennsylvania, Columbia and Princeton were each represented by a delegate. Technology's representative, O. H. Starkweather, '07, was chosen treasurer. The question as to the course over which the annual intercollegiate race should be run next fall caused much debate. Starkweather tendered an invitation from the Technology Association to have the run take place over the West Roxbury course. The offer was gratefully acknowledged, but its acceptance left in abeyance. If it should be accepted Tech's chances for first place at the finish would be greatly improved. Last autumn Tech won fourth place, running over the Long Island course which was entirely unfamiliar to the team. Should the race next year be on our own ground, we can look for a considerably better showing.

1907 KOMMERS POSTPONED.

The Committee in charge of the Junior Kommers which were to be held tomorrow night have been obliged to postpone the Kommers until a later date, when all their entertainers can be present.

COLLEGE NOTES.

Kenyon College has been having a most unfortunate year. Early in the fall occurred the tragedy of the fraternity initiation, and only recently has come the destruction by fire of their dormitory and the cremation of a number of the students.

The department of superintendents of the National Education Association closed a two days' convention at Louisville, Ky. Among the resolutions adopted was one sympathizing with the fight now waging against the "pernicious influence" of fraternities and societies in secondary schools and declaring this same must either be controlled or abolished.

The New York State Commission, having in charge the supervision of the award of Rhodes scholarships in English universities announced that the scholarship in this state will be awarded in 1907. The commission filled two vacancies in its membership, President Rush Rhees, of Rochester University, succeeded President Schurman of Cornell, and the Rev. David J. Hearn of St. Francis Xavier's College, New York City, succeeds President Nicholas Murray Butler of Columbia. Dr. Howard J. Rogers, deputy state commissioner of education, was elected permanent secretary of the commission.

CABOT MEDALS.

The Medals Will Be Presented at the Senior Kommers by Dr. Pritchett.

The Cabot Medals for physical development have been regularly awarded, but never actually given to the men who won them. At the Senior Kommers on April 14, President Pritchett will formally present them.

So far those who are entitled to them are as follows:

Has the calendar got ahead of time, or has winter been delayed by the storms on the ocean?

THE TECH has three vacant positions on the the Business Staff and for the purpose of filling them will start a competition at once. Any undergraduate at Technology is eligible, but the Freshmen are especially urged to enter the competition. No experience is required, and the man who shows himself to be a hard, consistent worker will be elected to the Staff. The work itself is light, and more than pays for the time spent on it by the experience a man gets in meeting the business men of the city. The Freshmen are especially urged to come out for the Staff as the experience gained on THE TECH will be a valuable asset in a man's favor when the elections for Technique '09 are being held. The Business Manager can be seen at the News Bureau today from 8.30 to 9 A.M., and from 1.10 to 1.30 P.M.

"The chief engineer of one of the largest and best managed street railway systems in the country said the other day: 'I will not have men who have not had a college training at the head of any department. I endeavor also to have as their assistants men with a technical training. While these men cannot be held in the organization long because there is little room for advancement, yet their higher average intelligence makes it worth while to have them.'

"This frank statement of the value of a technical training is refreshing. The young men who come to this road have no experience in the work they undertake and have little concrete knowledge to apply to the particular tasks they are set to. They are valuable not because of what they know, but because they have learned to reason from cause to effect and conscientiously to apply a rule for experimentation laid down by Sir Francis Bacon some two hundred years ago—to vary one condition in order to discover its effect in the final result. They have been taught to think."

The above editorial appeared not long ago in one of the engineering journals, and has led us to wonder if the Institute does really teach us to think, or if it so overloads us with work that we are all like one student who remarked; "Really, I do not have time to think; I do my problems and then I go to bed for a few minutes before breakfast."

It is undoubtedly true that the Institute keeps a man busy, and that many a student, who is honestly interested in his work, is prevented from studying it with that thoroughness which he personally would like. Moreover the opinion that the students are being overworked is not confined to the undergraduate body alone; alumni have expressed their opinion on this subject more than once and some members of the faculty are beginning to realize this. Professor Clifford in his last report said in part:

"The conclusions reached are that a radical simplification is most desirable, in fact is absolutely necessary, since the students are working under pressure on too many subjects. The time for the digestion and assimilation of what is presented to them and for clear and careful thinking must be very considerably increased." Professor Chandler wants to extend the architectural course over five years of work before granting a degree.

In spite of the growing sentiment in favor of such changes, no perceptible changes have yet been made. Such modifications of the various courses must be slow, and we can only hope that the future will give us more time for thought.
